

Treasure Hunting by David Stallard

Next week's theme for Camp Sankanac is "The Hunt is On." This title prompted me to wonder what people think about when they hear this title.

Most people would probably think of a lost treasure or some kind of animal to hunt. It is true that many people throughout history have spent their lives searching and hunting something for the ultimate prize.

But I think many times the average day to day person fails to realize that they too are searching and perusing something.

Although there are many different things that people are searching for, such as: food, clothes, animals, fame, money and so on... I want to make it obvious that all mankind is searching and hunting for one of two things. Mankind can either search to please himself or God.

My question for the treasure hunter is: what are you seeking for? Who are you trying to please?

Matthew 6:33 says: "But seek first the Kingdom and His righteousness, and all these things will be given to you as well." (NIV)

Make Matthew 6:33 a priority in your hunt today!
